

New Classes for 2019

HOW TO PASS and GETTING OVER THE LINE

To mark the ten year anniversary of passing the exam myself and a decade of helping hundreds of students to get over the line, I've refreshed my courses for the upcoming academic year and am delighted to announce two brand new classes for 2019: HOW TO PASS and GETTING OVER THE LINE.

HOW TO PASS does exactly what it says on the tin, giving you the complete tool kit of hacks, tactics and strategy to pass the MW exam with flying colours. All you need to do yourself is add time, hard work and commitment! There will be two classes, HOW TO PASS PRACTICAL and HOW TO PASS THEORY, both suitable for stage 1 students and stage 2 returners. The London classes will each be a full day, with a morning of discussion and teaching followed by an afternoon putting the techniques into practise with mock exams and group workshops. The Hong Kong classes will be just half a day, without the afternoon workshop element, to allow for both classes to be run on one day. A preparatory reading list will be provided for both sessions.

GETTING OVER THE LINE is a half day course developed from my experience over the last ten years of providing one-to-one tuition for those in the "last chance saloon" and seeing the skills and techniques required to get over the line on the last ditch attempt. There is a higher than average pass rate for those students sitting the exams on their final attempt, proof that it can be done! There will be two classes, GETTING OVER THE LINE PRACTICAL and GETTING OVER THE LINE THEORY. Suitable for stage 2 students, particularly those who have already attempted and failed one or both of the papers. A preparatory reading list will be provided for both sessions and in addition students will be invited to submit their past papers in advance of the class.
